

Reflections:

6/8/2011

Inventory Quiz

P. 30-31

Score:

Visual Auditory Kinesthetic

18 22 22

I scored my highest in Auditory which is listening and in kinesthetic which is action. This wasn't surprising because I am a hands-on learner and I am an excellent listener when I want to be. This quiz was interesting because it did make me realize and explain to me on the way I learn best.

Brain Test

p. 43

Score:

Right: 2 5 8

Left: 6 9

This test was interesting to know what side of my brain is used for different things. It seemed that I use my right side more than my left which is understandable because right is my dominate side for everything.

IQ Test

p. 46/Free-iqtest.net

Score: 124

Today in class I took an IQ test. It wasn't very hard, but it did have a few challenging questions. The average score for the IQ test was 97 so, I thought I did pretty well.

Stress inventory

p. 51

Score: 368

I scored over 300 and the book told me that it may indicate a "major life crisis." This was interesting because the book said I'm likely to become ill which scares me. Last August my grandpa was diagnosed with cancer and is going thru treatments. That was the biggest thing that has happened other than my cousin and uncle dying a few months ago and 2 friends got shot last September. Also last august was my first semester of college and everyone has interpersonal and financial problems at one point or another. And being that the past 2 semesters were my first year of college, I had to take final exams. Even though I've gone thru a lot of stressful times, it doesn't keep me from trying my best to achieve a better me.

6/13/2011 & 6/15/2011

Today in class my group and I worked on planning for our readings with our students. Today I made a quiz and vocabulary words for the students and also a lesson plan. I also wrote my reflection for today yesterday, 6/15/2011, and the day before yesterday once I finished my lesson plan work. I even finished the quizzes for part 5 though 9 that were due this week and next week.

6/14/2011 & 6/16/2011

Today in class we went to work with the students for Destination College. It was a lot of fun and the students seemed kind of interested but a little bored. On the 14th, I read the book "Being Bossy" and on the 16th, I read the book called "If You Take a Mouse to the Movies". The students did very well on my quizzes, however, they were all at different levels when it came to my vocabulary words.

6/20/2011 & 6/22/2011

Today in class my group and I worked on planning for our readings with our students. I made a lesson plan and found vocabulary words for the students. I also wrote my reflection for today and yesterday which was the 21st. I also finishes the exercises for the 4 chapters.

6/21/2011

Today in class we went to work with the students for Destination College. It was a lot of fun and the students seemed kind of interested but a little bored. We talked more to the students about how they liked this program and what they have learned most from it. Today was a better day because I noticed the students opened up to us a little more. I can't wait to see them Thursday for their last day of Destination College.

6/23/2011

Today was the last day for Destination College. Today was kind of a sad day but kind of fun. I'm glad got the opportunity to meet these students because it was so much fun to work with this determined group of students. I read my book to the kids gave a little quiz, went over a few words of what author's tone is, and I did a small chat with them about what they learned and how they liked the program.